

IT'S THE BUSINESS

An OMBS Diploma is your stepping stone into the workplace

There are more choices than ever nowadays and it is important to evaluate as many options possible. One option is that offered by OMBS, a business and IT training college, based in the heart of Oxford.

Succeeding in the business world

Oxford Media & Business School was established over 40 years ago and has evolved over the years to become the leading college of its kind. It has gained acclaim not just as an alternative to university, but one with excellent long term prospects when finding a job. The Executive PA Diploma starts in September and runs through July, offering professional IT and business skills to ensure that students are prepared to succeed in the business world. As a small and specialised college OMBS provides a highly personal study environment tailored to the individual with excellent pastoral care.

What do past students say?

Speaking about her experience at the school, a former student says, 'It is clear that the Executive PA Diploma at OMBS set the foundations for my career. Although I was very capable of going to university, I decided that this pathway would be more beneficial to my career. I haven't looked back since choosing OMBS over my place at St Andrews University'.

Students enjoy the university lifestyle while studying at OMBS

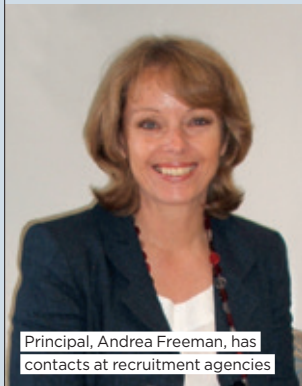

Students are prepared to succeed in the business world

A 2017 graduate said, 'OMBS has been one of the best things I have ever done. It still hasn't sunk in yet where I will be working!'

Gaining confidence before entering the world of work

The course is a great alternative to university, and also for graduates who feel they need to gain practical, transferable skills and confidence before going into the world of work. 'It is not only the very high level of skills which students leave with which sets them apart from competitors, but their record of post-course employment is exceptional,' states a school's careers teacher.

A former student commented, 'When I left sixth form I had no idea what to do, I didn't feel university was the best choice and I am so happy I found OMBS, it was the perfect course for me'.

Principal, Andrea Freeman, has contacts at recruitment agencies

Excellent job success

OMBS's Impressive track record of employment is in part down to Principal Andrea Freeman's connections with many recruitment agencies in London and Oxford. Every student leaves with a job search plan and has a definite idea of what it is they are looking for on the basis of their personal strengths. This is further supplemented by mock interviews and the Myers Briggs Personality Type profiling which is part of the personal development module.

Living the student life in Oxford

Students have no fear of missing out on the university lifestyle, with accommodation in the heart of Oxford enabling independent living. A former student said, 'The people I was learning alongside were all fun and friendly, I cannot fault the experience from start to finish'.

The job success rate after graduating speaks volumes of the course's validity in giving students the skills they need to flourish in the workplace.
